Rabboni I want to see

“I have never seen it that way”, we might exclaim when a friend opens our eyes. “I did not know him/her that well”, we might murmur when circumstances have shown us some beautiful facets of his/her personality which we had overlooked during years of social contact. Meeting good persons may change our lives. Such persons may open our eyes to values we have overlooked. They may broaden our way of looking at things and encourage us when we are “dawn in the dumps”. They may show us danger where we do not see it. The miracle narratives of the Gospel tell us about deprived and unhappy people who started a new life once they had met our Lord. Have you “met” our Lord to such an extent that he fascinates you, that you are convinced that doing things his way will brighten your life? Pray that your eyes may be opened to see it! Blindness of mind may deserve blame, if it is caused by indifference and lack of care.

Questions for reflection

They departed in tears, but I will console them and guide them.

- Where do you find yourself at this moment in the salvation story: having, losing, or regaining joy?

You are my son: this day I have begotten you.

- What choices do you actively make to take control of your formation as a Catholic Christian?

The blind man Bartimaeus began to cry out and say, “Jesus, Son of David, have pity on me.”

- What holds you back from being the holy saint of God you were born to be? Try writing a short prayer that asks for what you need plainly.

FAITH RESPONSE:

Call on Jesus. Ask for his help and count on it. Listen for the call of Jesus in your life. Exercise your freedom with wisdom.
