February 07, 2010. Fifth Sunday in ordinary time.

The Rev. Gregory Mludzik, Pastor.

Raymond Bielski, Parish Chairman Dawn Wassman, Music Minister

In the awareness of persons who form part of a technological society it is better to keep the sacred and secular in their lives separated. Phenomena that were considered mysterious in the past can now be explained by science. When we are sick, we do not go to the priest to have him expel a demon; we go to the doctor for our antibiotics. Counselors delve into the psychological structure of youngsters and advise them as to what direction they should choose in life. It seems that the intuitive awe for the sacred and the mysterious presence of God in all of life is disappearing to the degree that psychology steps in. Can only artists, painters, and poets still have the intuitive awareness of the sacred in the reality of life? All believers have it in their best moments. We should keep it alive. In faith, we should be just as fully aware of God's presence in any scientific process as we are of his presence in the beauty of nature and in all that happens in our lives. The Bible reading deal with the calls of Isaiah, Paul, and Peter, all three of them overwhelmed by a feeling of utter unworthiness in the presence of the Most High when they experienced him and heard his call.

Questions for reflection

I saw the Lord seated on a high and lofty throne, with the train of his garment filling the temple.

* What is your heart's desire, and what might it cost to obtain it?

I am the least of the apostles; in fact, because I persecuted the church of God, I do not even deserve the name.

* How you ever gotten what you wanted – only to find it was not what you thought it would be?

"Master, we have been hard at it all night long and have caught nothing; but if you say so, I will lower the nets."

Count the miracles in your life so far. Be comprehensive.

- How do these wonders oblige you to live more responsibly?
